RESEARCH EXPERIENCES

Graduate Research Assistant   Indiana University
Advisor: Dr. Fengguang Song

Error-Bound Lossy Compression for Scientific Data (FZ)   Aug 2024–Current

- Profiled the cuSZ lossy compressor as well as related compressors, tested kernel implementations, and modeled performance of compressor kernels across Nvidia GPUs.
- Creating a GPU module library for high performance data-reduction modules. Allows for efficient testing of many GPU compression pipelines.

Summer Undergraduate Research Internship   Sandia National Labs
Advisor: Dr. Oksana Guba

Optimizing the E3SM Climate Model   May 2024–Aug 2024

- HPC internship at a Department of Energy National Lab. Achieved through a Sustainable Horizons Institute workshop.
- Worked towards understanding redundant solves in the world class E3SM climate model, helping maximize its potential for exascale applications.

Undergraduate Researcher   Applied Computing Institute (GVSU)
Advisors: Dr. Zachary DeBruine & Dr. Erin Carrier

IVSparse - Sparse Data Compression Library   Aug 2022–May 2024

- Created two proprietary compression formats which leverage present redundancy in data to allow for usable compressed data with a limited performance loss.
- Involved work in high performance computing (HPC), data compression, and data structure design.

Probabilistic Modeling of Genomics Data with Variational Autoencoders   Sep 2023–Jan 2024

- Aims to train a variational autoencoder on genetic data to help predict patient risk based on genetic factors.
